FIN-FUR AND FEATHER FACTS

Question: I would like to try some of the fall tributary fishing for Lake Ontario salmonid but I'm not sure where to start. Could you give me some beginner's tips?

Answer: Tributary fishing for Lake Ontario salmonids usually begins in early September as chinook and coho salmon begin to enter the streams. By the end of September and into October, most tributaries have fish in them up to any impassable barriers. Sometimes, this means 20 to 30 pound fish can be caught out of tiny feeder streams hardly large enough to hold them. Spawning run salmon are susceptible to a wide variety of baits, lures, and flies. The most successful are egg sacks, fish with size four and six hooks. Marshmallows are also very effective baits. Casting large spoons and diving plugs such as Hot-shots and Tad Polly's are good techniques for the lower stretches of the streams while small spinners work best in the upper sections. Fly fishermen successfully use fluorescent yarn fly and glo bug patterns in pink, chartreuse and orange. Also, streamers in cream, fluorescent pink, orange and chartreuse.

Steelhead and rainbows usually enter the tributaries by late October and they remain there until April and May. November, March and April are usually the best months with many streams freezing over during the winter. Drift fishing from both shore and boats are best for these fish. Use eight to 12 foot supple spinning rods with six to 12 pound test line. Many anglers also incorporate a leader of smaller strength test line. Fish with small baits such as egg sacks, flies and marshmallows and use attractors such as Spin-n-Glo, Birdy Drifters and Oakie Drifters. Spinners and diving plugs are also effective, especially when they play upon the steelheads territorial nature and anger them into striking.

Public fishing rights have been purchased along many of the popular tributaries. Excellent opportunities in Region Eight include the Genesee River; Slater Creek; Salmon Creek; Sandy Creek; Bear Creek; Maxwell Creek; Sodus Creek; Wolcott Creek; and Red Creek. Watch for the yellow signs stating "Public Fishing Stream."

Question: I own 50 acres in Steuben County, but my residence is in Rochester. Do I need the sporting licenses to hunt and trap on my southern tier property?

Answer: As stated in the Fishing, Small Game Hunting and Trapping Regulations Guide, "resident owners and lessees and members of their immediate families and Indian resident owners and resident members of their immediate families, when hunting or trapping on farm lands that they are actually occupying and cultivating, are not required to have a trapping or small game license." There are no exceptions for big game. This means that you must still purchase the required licenses to hunt and trap on your property because you are not residing there and cultivating the land.

DECOYS

A thousand years ago, Indians made the first decoys to trick birds down to within arrow shot. They were made of bulrushes woven and twisted into duck shapes. This Indian invention was quickly adopted by North America's first white hunters. In the Old World, they used live birds to trap wild ones in a cage the Dutch called "ende kooi," which the English pronounced "decoy."
